

Global Product Manager (all genders) Feed additives

Kennziffer 772210033

Our client enjoys an international reputation in innovative feed additives and is expanding. The product management team is in the need of additional members with animal nutrition and product management expertise. This is a challenging and responsible job with a global approach.

Interested? We are looking forward to your application or just give us a call for more details!

Role and Responsibilities:

- Responsibility for an entire product line of feed additives
- Development and implementation of marketing concepts
- You provide technical support to customers and the sales team
- You closely observe and analyze the market and develop all commercial and technical marketing materials
- You ensure the quality of the products in cooperation with the quality department
- Attractive compensation package

Profile and Qualifications

- 5+ years product management or marketing expertise
- MSc in Animal Nutrition or Animal Health or equivalent education
- Technical and commercial expertise in feed or feed additives
- Team player with strong communication skills
- Good commercial understanding
- Willing to travel globally and relocate
- Excellent communication skills in English, German skills are welcome

RIEBENSAHM
AGRIBUSINESS RECRUITING